

Executive Chef Gerald Infantino

Experience

An Illinois native, Executive Chef Jerry Infantino excelled at Kendall College and got his first Executive Chef position with Weber Grill Restaurant group in Chicago. In 2007 The Weber Group advanced him to Indianapolis to open their newest location. Chef Infantino's superior and innovative cuisine built him a solid reputation. Recognizing his tremendous talent, Centerplate recruited Chef Jerry in 2008 as a Regional Chef in Indianapolis. Chef Infantino, looking to share his wealth of culinary experience and knowledge joined the Centerplate team here at the Baltimore Convention Center in mid 2012.

Chef Infantino's Philosophy

I am passionate about creating consistently high quality cuisine as well as executing innovative dishes people haven't encountered before. I want my food to create a buzz! I want our guests to be raving about their positive culinary experience long after they leave the Convention Center.

My success is founded on three main principles:

- Always strive to be unique when it comes to creating and displaying menus.
- Support your team and let them do what they are good at...they will surprise you.
- Utilize local businesses, vendors and suppliers.
